

A detailed view of the painting 'Boy with Lute' by Caravaggio. The image shows the hands of a young boy in a white, ruffled shirt, playing a lute. The lute is a large, pear-shaped stringed instrument with a dark body and a long neck. The boy's hands are positioned on the strings and the fretboard. In the foreground, an open book of musical notation is visible, with several staves of music. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the textures of the fabric and the wood of the instrument.

Cantores de Santo Tomás

Madrigales
Colegiata de San Cosme y San Damián.
Covarrubias (Burgos)
Sábado, 18 de junio de 2016, 19:45 h

CARAVAGGIO, El tañedor de laúd (1596), Museo del Hermitage (San Petersburgo)

Diseño: Alfonso Pérez del Pozo